All of the Hardaway descendants in the United States appear to descend from the same Virginia family. This is a most interesting colonial family. There are several different traditions about how the name got started. One of these is as follows:

"Thomas Hardaway, Sr., found as kidnapped child too young to give name, dressed in green silk velvet trimmed with gilt on board ship from England around 1685; shipowner Joseph Thomas, Quaker, of Philadelphia, gave affidavit of discovery, educated the child and saw him well established in life; tradition says child was of family of MacBeth; settled at 'Osborne' Chesterfield County, Virginia. Mr. Thomas, the shipowner, gave the young child his name as a first name and told him to choose a surname. He said it was hard to be away from home and friends and so would choose Hardaway".

Now genealogists have discovered that there were Hardaways in Virginia much earlier than 1685. Further research may clear up many of the mysteries surrounding the beginnings of this family in the U. S. At present the only book on the subject is Thomas Hardaway of Chesterfield Co., Va. and His Descendants by Sarah Donelson Hubert, published in 1906. Several genealogists, including Laurence B. Gardiner, 1863 Cowden Ave., Memphis 4, Tenn., are working on the line at the present time and much new information has been added since the book was written. Briefly, the Hardaway ancestors of John Clack Hardaway are as follows:

Thomas Hardaway, Sr., b. ca. 1685, d. 1745, m. Jane Stith, daughter of Lt. Col. Drury Stith and Susanna Bathurst. The Bathurst line can be traced to around 1400 A.D. when they came to England from Batters in the Duchy of Luneberg. One of their sons was:

Thomas Hardaway, Jr., b. ca. 1715 in Bristol Parish, Prince George Co., Va., d. ca. 1785 Dinwiddie Co., Bath Parish, Va. Married Dec. 24, 1737 Agnes Thweatt. (For a long time it was accepted that his wife was Agnes Peterson. Old Bible records show conclusively that he married Agnes Thweatt. It is possible that he may have had two wives and the second may have been named Martha Peterson. The name Peterson appears frequently as a given name to descendants of Thomas Hardaway, Jr. However, Agnes Thweatt is believed to have been the daughter of James Thweatt and Ann Peterson.) One of their daughters, Mary, b. Mar. 11, 1743, married Ishmael Harwell, son of Mark Harwell. One of their sons was:

Major John Hardaway, b. Sept. 6, 1751, d. April 13, 1824 in Dinwiddie Co., Va. He married as his second wife on Feb. 2, 1788 Elizabeth Maclin, daughter of Frederick Maclin and Lucy Rollins. Frederick Maclin served in the Revolutionary War as an Aide to George Washington, and he was very prominent in public life in Brunswick Co., Va. For further information about the Maclin family read The Family Chronicle and Kinship Book of Maclin by Mrs. Octavia Zollicoffer Bond and Kinfolks by Harlee, Vol. III. Major John Hardaway served in the Revolutionary War and was awarded a sword for bravery in the Battle of Cowpens by General Washington. Rea Avery Hardaway of Delano, Calif. now has possession of this sword. Their youngest son was John Clack Hardaway, b. Jan. 8, 1801, whose descendants are given here.

HARDAWAY--HARWELL

John Clack Hardaway, the youngest child of Major John Hardaway and his 2nd wife, Elizabeth Maclin, was born on Jan. 8, 1801 in Brunswick Co., Va. and died in 1864 in Shelby Co., Tenn. His mother died when he was young and he was reared by his maternal grandparents, Frederick Maclin and Lucy Rollins. The will of Lucy (Rollins) Maclin, who died Mar. 5, 1817, mentions him alone of all her grandchildren in her will when she stated "My desire is that John Hardaway, whom I have raised, may have my bed and furniture." The Clack family was numerous in this section of Virginia and it was in all likelihood the following John Clack after whom he was named. "Col. Spencer D. Clack, now (in 1926) 84 yrs. old says he has always heard that Major John Clack, under Gen. Morgan at the battle of Cowpens, 1781, being the only field officer who was not wounded in fight, received the surrender of the remnant of Tarleton's British Cavalry after their defeat."* It was in the Battle of Cowpens that Major John Hardaway was awarded a sword for bravery by Gen. George Washington. John Clack Hardaway married Dec. 18, 1820 in Brunswick Co., Va. his first cousin once removed, Mary Hardaway Harwell, the daughter of John Hardaway Harwell and the granddaughter of Ishmael Harwell and Mary Hardaway (sister to Major John Hardaway). She died sometime between 1842 and 1850 in Shelby Co., Tenn. They moved from Virginia to Raleigh, Shelby Co., Tenn. around 1838.

THE CARLISLE ANCESTRY

Wiley Henry Carlisle was the oldest child of Chambliss Carlisle and his wife, Sarah, both natives of North Carolina. Chambliss Carlisle was born ca. 1795 and Sarah ca. 1796. Sarah died in Shelby Co., Tenn. between 1850 and 1860 and Chambliss Carlisle died sometime after 1860. They had seven children, all born in N.C., as follows:

1. Wiley Henry, b. Sept. 4, 1821, d. June 17, 1898, m. 1st on Dec. 30, 1847 in Memphis, Tenn. Elizabeth Rebecca Harwell Hardaway. Issue: Hilliard Lewis, Thomas Peterson, Frederick Macklin, Martha Jane, Margaret Frances Susan Rebekah and Henry Nathaniel. Wiley Henry Carlisle m. 2nd Polina Collins. Issue William Chambliss.
2. Mary Ann, b. ca. 1823, m. on Jan. 10, 1847 in Memphis, Tenn. Osborn Harris. She was a widow in 1860. Issue: John, Newberry, Osborne and Sallie.
3. James W. b. ca. 1828, m. on July 4, 1848 in Memphis, Tenn. Lucy Ann Wesson. Issue: Nancy, Robert, J.C., and James as listed in the 1860 census.
4. Welmouth (female), b. ca. 1831.
5. William, b. ca. 1832.
6. Nancy H. L., b. ca. 1834, m. on Dec. 20, 1855 in Memphis, Tenn. Levi Sparkman. Issue: Lucy listed in 1860 census.
7. Elizabeth, b. ca. 1835.

Chambliss and Sarah Carlisle moved from North Carolina to Shelby Co., Tenn. sometime between 1835 and 1840. He was a farmer. Chambliss Carlisle is believed to be the son of Nathaniel and Liddie Carlisle of Halifax Co., North Carolina. Nathaniel Carlisle's will, written Oct. 2, 1807 and proved in court Aug. 1812, lists the following children: Richard, James, William, Joel, Chambliss, Jesse, John, Polly Daniel, Sally, Rebecca, Nancy and grandsons--Guilford Wheless and Benjamin Butts. The 1790 census for Halifax Co., N.C. lists a Nathaniel Carlile as head of a household. This Nathaniel Carlisle was probably born ca. 1755 to 1760. Note that Wiley Henry Carlisle named the youngest son of his first marriage Henry Nathaniel and the son of his second marriage, William Chambliss. Chambliss is sometimes written Chambles and other variations.

The information on the parents and brothers and sisters of Wiley Henry Carlisle was obtained from the 1840, 1850 and 1860 census records of Shelby Co., Tenn. and from Shelby Co. marriage licenses. Further information on their descendants or regarding the ancestry of Chambliss and Nathaniel Carlisle and their wives is being sought by Denzil L. Carlisle, 326 Victoria St. San Francisco 27, Calif.

ADAMS--HARDAWAY

Parham Adams, b. ca. 1830 in Tenn., m. on March 4, 1853 in Memphis, Tenn. Sarah Ann Petway Hardaway, b. ca. 1835 in Brunswick Co., Va. She was the 6th child of John Clack Hardaway and Mary Hardaway Harwell. Issue: (Probably)

A Virginia, b. in Tenn. between 1853 and 1860.

(The 1860 census for Shelby Co., Tenn., 6th Civil District, P.O. Raleigh, lists Virginia Adams, b. in Tenn. as living with John Clack Hardaway and his daughters, Martha and Mary A. This would seem to be the daughter of Parham Adams and Sarah Ann Petway Hardaway. Sarah was most likely deceased and Parham Adams was either deceased or living elsewhere. The 1850 census lists Parham Adams, age 20, and Margaret Adams, age 17, living with a Cowgill family. Margaret and Parham Adams are probably brother and sister, but nothing is known about their parentage.)

HUNT--HARDAWAY

William Hunt, b. ca. 1843, d. Nov. 1898, m. in 1884 Susan Mark Hardaway, b. in 1842 in Shelby Co., Tenn., d. Nov. 1919. She was the youngest child of John Clack Hardaway and Mary Hardaway Harwell. Both Susan and her husband are buried in the Elmwood Cemetery in Memphis. William Hunt was from Ark. No issue.

THE TREK WEST

Wiley Henry Carlisle spanned the continent in his life time. Between 1835 and 1840, Chambliss and Sarah Carlisle and family, probably motivated by the free land in Arkansas and the money panic of 1837, moved to Cuba (now in Memphis), Tenn. where he bought property. His oldest son, Wiley Henry Carlisle, married in Memphis on Dec. 30, 1847. In the 1850 and 1860 census he is listed as a separate householder in Shelby Co. On Nov. 6, 1868 he purchased property in DeSoto Co., Miss. and on Dec. 15, 1877 he purchased additional property in Tate Co., Miss. between Coldwater and Arkabutla. Several of his children were married in Tate Co. and several of his children and grandchildren died there and were buried in a cemetery called Brooks Chapel.

The first of the family to arrive in Calif. was William Henry Hardaway, nephew of Wiley Henry Carlisle, who came to Tulare Co., in 1886. Wiley Henry Carlisle and several of his sons had already been planning to move to Calif. for some time. In 1888 Frederick Macklin Carlisle and family arrived in Tulare Co. to make their home. Fred's father-in-law, Isaiah H. Haley, had preceded them in 1884. Enroute to Calif. Fred and his family spent some time at Hot Springs, Ark. for his oldest son's health. He worked on the railroad for about a year at Whitewright, Texas.

On Christmas Day 1890 Wiley Henry Carlisle, accompanied by his wife, Polina, and his sons, William Chambliss, and Thomas Peterson and his family, and his three grandchildren, Helen, Jack and Henry Byers, arrived at Tipton, Calif. where they were met by Fred Carlisle and Melvin Etter. All of the Carlisle and Hardaway families came to Calif. by train.

Lucy Emerrine Hardaway came to Calif. from Miss. around 1888 to make her home with her brother, William Henry Hardaway. Mary Virginia Hardaway and her husband, Peyton Stirling Wyatt, came to Calif. about 1890 from Texas where he had been a railroad man. John Clack Hardaway and his family, including Arthur and his wife, came to Tulare Co., Calif. March 22, 1902 from Tate Co., Miss. Martha Elizabeth Hardaway and her husband, John William Dudley Singleton, arrived in Calif. from Texas on March 14, 1907. Millard Fillmore Hardaway had gone to Texas where he was last heard from in Oct. 1880. He was presumed dead after that.

All of the Carlisles and Hardaways settled around Porterville. Wiley Henry Carlisle and his son, Thomas Peterson, purchased a farm from Chas. W. Harper on Jan. 5, 1891, less than two weeks after their arrival in Calif. Graves of Carlisles and Hardaways are to be found in the Woodville, Plano and Old Porterville Cemeteries.

The family of Hilliard Lewis Carlisle, who died in 1881 before the migration to Calif. lived in Memphis, Tenn. Henry Nathaniel Carlisle, who died of fever in 1887, had gone to Ark. where he married a pretty young girl whose family had camped for several days near the Carlisle plantation while enroute from Miss. to Ark. to make their home. His oldest son, Wiley Levi Carlisle, first went to Calif. in 1906 when he spent a couple of years there. He moved his family to Long Beach in 1924.
